NOR-TECH Hi-Performance Boats offers Performance Boat School as Standard Equipment

Fort Myers, FL October 8, 2007 – Nor-Tech Hi-Performance Boats and Tres Martins Performance Boat School are pleased to announce with the purchase of every new Nor-Tech Hi-Performance Boat, a certified course at the Tres Martin Performance Boating School is included. Now, new Nor-Tech owners will have the opportunity to learn from highly skilled professionals and learn how to safely enjoy and maintain their new boat.

Tres Martin, a renowned high performance racing champion, started in the boating industry in the late 70s. He has numerous racing victories including World and National Championships. Brad Schoenwald, a career Coast Guard Officer, licensed master is trained in instructional technologies. The Tres Martin Performance Boating School has filled a need in our industry by teaching boat owners the proper and safe operation of their vessels.

The session begins by covering the basics of boating safety and related equipment, from proper lifejackets and fire extinguishers to ignition stop switch lanyards. Topics include rules of the waterway, boat maintenance, occupant safety and a complete explanation of the dynamics of hull design. Time is spent on the specifics of trimming, tabbing, acceleration, deceleration, turning, wave and wake crossing and how to take corrective action in the event of a problem. On day two, the students get a first hand demonstration of everything they have learned in a real world environment. The students are shown how to operate essential equipment, conduct pre-launch checks, basic maintenance, and potential problem areas. Then each student must properly execute all of the performance fundamentals and complete maneuvers in their boats until they are able to demonstrate proper execution to the satisfaction of the instructors.

“Nor-Tech is a premier High Performance Boat Builder and should receive significant recognition for demonstrating their commitment to safety and the well being of their customers”
